Native Youth Community Project (NYCP) Grant Overview

1. What is the NYCP grant?

The Native Youth Community Projects (NYCP) is centered on the goal of ensuring that Indian students are prepared for college and careers by promoting partnerships in American Indian (AI) tribal communities.

The NYCP allows the local community to choose a project focus based on a needs assessment or other data analysis as well as the areas the community identifies as having the biggest impact on improving outcomes for AI youth. Through a collaborative partnership between the United Houma Nation, the Point-Au-Chien Indian Tribe, the Biloxi-Chitimacha Confederation of Muskogee Indians, the Terrebonne Parish School District, Louisiana Indian Education Association, Fletcher Technical Community College, Nicholls State University and the Houma-Terrebonne Chamber of Commerce, the purpose of the Native Youth Community Project is to improve the college and career readiness of American Indian students through a community-led project.

2. Why is the focus on GCM?

When the grant was written, data from all AI populations was reviewed. The needs assessment showed that there was a need to increase the number of AI students who are First Time Freshmen (college). The needs assessment also showed that the opportunities and programs had to be in place before students entered high school. Grand Caillou Middle had the largest percentage of American Indians with the greatest need academically and behaviorally. This is why the majority of the resources of the grant are focused at one school.
